Helsinki Pact . . . 35 Nations to Work for Peace

HELSINKI (UPI) — The heads of state of 35 nations today signed an historic but controversial agreement that pledges them to the perhaps unachievable goal of a tension-free Europe released from the constant threat of war.

The agreement was called simply the "Final Act" of their three-day summit conference by which they pledged to try to reduce the risk of war and to dismantle some of the barriers to human contact on a continent that has known little but conflict and tension throughout its history.

But it did commit the 35 nations morally and politically to work for the perhaps unachievable goals of a tension-free Europe released from the constant threat of war, goals proclaimed by all in a series of formal set speeches in the past three days.

The document was controversial because deep doubts have been voiced in the U.S. Congress and in Western Europe about its value and even its wisdom.

Critics argued it simply set the seal on Soviet conquests in Europe during and after World War II and underwrote the East-West division of Europe. Other critics said the West had given Moscow a free hand in Communist-controlled Eastern Europe without winning any solid commitments in return.

Whether or not the critics were right in down-grading the significance of the "Final Act," the summit meeting and the signing of the document did succeed in creating a moment of euphoria, however temporary, among the nations involved.

President Ford, in the most applauded of the 35 speeches the conference heard, said, "We owe it to our children, to the children of all continents, not to miss any opportunity, not to malingering for one minute, not to spare ourselves or allow others to shirk in the monumental task of building a better and safer world."

Anti-Kissinger forces launch another attack. Story on page 4.

Other summit leaders in turn said this was the very purpose of this blueprint for a more peaceful, tension-free Europe.

The three-day summit meeting and signature of the "Final Act" climaxed more than two years of negotiations of often mindboggling difficulty that often appeared near breakdown. And it brought to Helsinki the greatest group of heads of state since The Congress of Vienna in 1814 which re-drew the borders of Europe after the defeat of Napoleon.

The negotiations began with so-called "consultative talks" here in November 1972. Originally, they were scheduled to last about three months. In fact, they dragged on for more than seven.

Finally, they produced enough agreement on a possible closing document to enable the stage of real negotiations to begin in Geneva on July 3, 1973.

The negotiators succeeded in breaking down the vast subject of security in Europe into four main headings, or "baskets" as they were known.

These were a set of 10 basic principles, human contacts, information, culture and education, and plans for a follow-up meeting to be held in Belgrade in two years to see how far the member countries have carried out the pledges they signed here.

The 10 principles in the "Final Act" included such basic issues as sovereign equality of all nations, refraining from the threat or use of force, inviolability of frontiers and nonintervention in the internal affairs of other countries.

Meanwhile following a day that included calls from the traveling White House in Helsinki urging favorable action, the Senate voted 47-46 Thursday night to partially lift the embargo imposed by Congress Feb. 5 because Turkey used U.S. military equipment in its invasion of Cyprus.

The Senate measure would have immediately released $185 million in military items already paid for by Turkey but being held in warehouses. Turkey is paying the storage charges.

It was sent to the House, which had been held in session awaiting the Senate action.

Last week the House defeated similar legislation. That prompted the Turkish government to take control of U.S. bases there, some of which perform electronic surveillance of the Soviet Union.

Efforts of the House Republican leadership to assure the issue would be taken up Friday were blocked by rules committee chairman Ray Madden, D-Ind., who refused to call a meeting which would have allowed a majority to decide the issue today.

The only way the House now can pass the measure before its vacation recess is by a two-thirds majority, considered an impossibility. As a result, House action is not expected until September at the earliest.

Ford met in Helsinki Thursday with Turkish Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel and offered him $50 million in immediate military aid out of presidential contingency funds — bypassing the embargo — if Turkey would give back control of the bases. Demirel rejected the offer and insisted the embargo be lifted.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said Ford had "degraded and denigrated this great country" by offering the $50 million to Turkey. "I say pay no ransom tonight," Eagleton said.

"This is not kidnaping, but I guess it could be called basenaping. If Turkey extracts its ransom from us tonight, the ransom price will go up, up, up."

Dog Days Are Here at City Beach

It'll Cost 50 Cents for a Subway Ride

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City has frozen wages for public workers and ordered higher commuter fares and tolls. But the financial community warns the city still faces a 50-50 chance of going broke within a month.

New York City is the richest in the world. The average income, for every man, woman and child, is $11,638. The city's real estate is valued at $82.5 billion.

City residents pay the highest taxes in America, but get more public services than any other city. For more than a decade New York City has borrowed money to finance the services and is now $7 billion in debt. Banks refused to lend the city any more money unless the city tightens its belt.

Over the past few weeks, New York City has tried to meet the banks' demands with an austerity program, including:

- Wage freezes for thousands of public workers.
- Layoffs of thousands of public workers.

- An increase in bus and subway fares from 35 to 50 cents.

- An increase in the Staten Island ferry fare, traditionally a nickel, to 25 cents.

- A 25 per cent increase in fares on the area's commuter railroads.

- An increase of 25 cents in fares on eight bridges and tunnels that have fares.

Mayor Abe Beame also announced Thursday a series of other austerity measures, including one that could end free tuition in the city university system. Beame asked the state to immediately take over the full cost of the city's prison and court systems.

While many other city unions went along with the roll-back of wages, the police and fire unions balked. Beame asked the City Council to impose the freeze on them.

"There will be a wage freeze — if not voluntary, then imposed," Beame said at a news conference.

"A deal was made sometime during the night which we were not a party to," said Firemen's union chief Michael Maye. He said it would "force us into a position we are not going to accept."

"I don't like the deal as it stands," said Ken McFeeley, head of the policemen's union.

The city has already fired thousands of city employees, including policemen, firemen and garbage men, and made drastic cutbacks in city services.

Victor Gotbaum, president of the nonuniformed workers' union, the city's largest, emerged Thursday from negotiations with the city and the Municipal Assistance Corp. — set up to market the special bonds — and said his union would submit to a deferral of "part or all the 6 percent wage increase that was due city workers July 1."

In return, there will be no further layoffs "except under worsening economic conditions," said Deputy Mayor James A. Cavanagh.

The corporation's board of directors unanimously urged Beame to impose a three-year ceiling on the city's budget and a freeze on tax increases along with 10 percent salary cuts for elected officials and implementation of widescale fiscal reforms.

Without these changes, the corporation said, it would be difficult to restore the investor confidence needed to meet its August obligations of more than $791 million.

7 Perish In Fire

HIGHLAND FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Seven persons were killed and another injured today in a fire that swept a second-floor apartment over a bar in this Orange County community, police said.

Police said six of the victims were children.

Identities of the victims were not immediately made known.

The building is located at the corner of Center St. and Schneider Ave.

Hoffa Feared Dead

DETROIT (UPI) — Former Teamsters President James Hoffa officially was a missing person today, and speculation he was kidnapped or slain swept the union he once ruled with an iron fist. Michigan's governor said he was told Hoffa disappeared after planning to meet a reputed Mafia leader.

"I know the police suspect foul play," said L. Brooks Patterson, prosecutor in Oakland County, where the 62-year old Hoffa lives and where he vanished more than 24 hours before his family notified authorities.

Some union sources said they feared Hoffa's disappearance would intensify rivalries that already have spilled over into beatings and bombings.

Other reports said the Hoffa family feared he was dead.

Hoffa's car was found abandoned in a shopping center lot outside a fashionable Bloomfield Township restaurant where Hoffa apparently made a luncheon date.

Police were led to the car by an anonymous telephone caller.

Gov. William Milliken said Thursday night he understood Hoffa planned to meet Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone, a reputed kingpin of the Detroit Mafia.

Milliken did not elaborate.

One of Hoffa's sons, James P. Hoffa, signed a missing persons report Thursday night and said his father was expected home at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Asked who his father had planned to meet, his son said, "I'd rather not say."

Witnesses said they saw Hoffa at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, standing alone outside the restaurant and apparently waiting for someone.

The disappearance came after several incidents, the latest a bombing 22 days ago that destroyed a car owned by Richard Fitzsimmons, son of present Teamsters International president Frank E. Fitzsimmons.

Hoffa and Fitzsimmons, handpicked by Hoffa when he went to prison in the late 1960s for jury tampering and mail fraud, are rivals. Hoffa has launched a court battle that would enable him to challenge Fitzsimmons for president of the 2.2-million member International next year.

JAMES HOFFA
(UPI)

State police joined the investigation. But an FBI spokesman said the agency had not intervened because it had no jurisdiction in the case.

There apparently were few clues.

A Bloomfield Township officer said there was no sign of a struggle at Hoffa's car and that it contained only some dirt in the front seat and a pair of white gloves in the back seat.

The last time Hoffa met newsmen, he told them he knew the identity of the man responsible for the bombing of Fitzsimmons' car and other incidents. He refused to identify the man.

Dave Beck, who turned over the Teamsters International union to Hoffa in 1957 when he went to prison, said in Seattle he did not think the disappearance was connected with labor troubles.

"It's something personal that relates to Jimmy," Beck said, "ransom or a shakedown or something of that nature."

Hoffa and the Teamsters have been synonymous for more than 40 years and the pugnacious, colorful "Jimmy" even ruled effectively while behind bars until he resigned the presidency in 1971.

More Persons Employed During Month of July

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped 0.2 percentage points to 8.4 percent in July and the number of people with jobs rose for the first time in seven months, the Labor Department said today.

Labor said 630,000 people were added to the job roles in July, including substantial boosts in work for teen-agers and women. Total employment rose to 85.1 million. The department said the overall figures would have been even better except that 95,000 Americans were on strike last month.

The decline from June's 8.6 percent jobless rate was a surprise to the department, which said seasonal adjustment difficulties encountered during the two previous months did not arise in July.

The number of unemployed in July was 7.8 million, down 100,000 from June. But the number of jobs increased from 84.4 million in June.

The department said there were declines in the jobless rate for nearly all categories of workers with the major improvements among teen-agers and women.

Teen-age unemployment fell from 20.5 percent to 19.1 percent. The jobless rate for women dropped 0.6 percent to 7.9 percent.

The July report, coupled with other economic indicators in the past six weeks, indicate that the economy has stabilized. New employment had held steady in April, May and

July, after 2.6 million job losses in the preceding six months.

But the Labor Department said the unemployment rate would have improved even more in July except for an estimated 95,000 workers on strike. The bulk of these were in the construction trades, where a decline in employment of 45,000 jobs was "entirely due to increased strike activity," the department said.

Some Good News

The 8.4 percent jobless rate in July was the lowest since February when it was 8.2 percent, but compared unfavorably with July, 1974, when the rate was 5.3 percent.

The jobless rate fell for both part-time and full-time workers in July and continued the trend established in June.

Unemployment for household heads was 6 percent in July, virtually unchanged from June. The number of workers employed at least 15 weeks rose slightly.

In other categories, the black unemployment rate dropped from 13.7 to 13 percent, while the white total was constant at 7.9 percent for both months.

Unemployment among white collar workers was unchanged at 4.8 percent, but the jobless rate for blue collar workers dropped 0.5 percent to 12.1 percent in July, the department said.

The only categories that showed increases from June to July were for blue collar craftsmen, up 0.2 percent to 9.6 percent and government workers, up 0.4 percent, to 4.3 percent.

The unemployment rate among Vietnam veterans continued higher than the national average, 9.6 percent for July. There was some improvement for veterans in the 20 to 24-year age group where unemployment dropped 2.3 percent to 17.6 percent in July.

Unemployment fell 0.6 percent in June to 8.6 percent, but that did not reflect an improvement in job opportunities, the Labor Department's top analyst said.

Labor Statistics Commissioner Julius Shiskin said the rate of increase actually has been steady at about 9 percent for May and June despite variations in the monthly figures.

Shiskin said a true picture of current unemployment would come from an average of the May, June and July rates rather than trying to compare each month.

Death Blow for Tocks Island Dam

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — New York, New Jersey and Delaware have vetoed the $400 million Tocks Island Dam project, a 15-year-old Army plan for a 37-mile lake and recreation area that environmentalists said would damage the Delaware River.

Only Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania favored construction of the flood control project north of Stroudsburg, Pa.

While the final decision is officially up to Congress, the commission's action was regarded as the death knell of the dam.

"It is mortally wounded and in danger of dying," Shapp said after the vote was taken here Thursday.

While they voted down the project, the states also said the federal government should continue acquiring land in the Delaware Water Gap area for recreational purposes and should protect the area against developers.

Congress, which first authorized the dam proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers in 1960, stopped funds last August and asked for a review by the states because of mounting opposition from environmentalists who believed the lake would become a polluted wasteland that would ruin the last unspoiled free-flowing river in the East.

Shapp said defeat of the project was a blow to Pennsylvania, which suffered from drought in 1965 and from devastating floods in 1972.

"Time is going to show that having the Tocks Island Dam in place would have been a great thing for this country," Shapp said. "I think the environmental problems could have been handled."

Ogden Reid, environmental conservation commissioner in New York, said he was concerned the dam would cause "significant" damage to the ecology of the river.

Gov. Sherman Tribbitt of Delaware said he opposed the dam because New Jersey and New York did not want it.

The U.S. Interior Department, the fifth member of the basin compact, did not vote on the construction question but voted for continued land acquisition.

The Sierra Club, the League for Conservation Legislation, and a delegation of private citizens from the Delaware Water Gap area hailed the commission's decision at a meeting here.

Mrs. John R. Naisby, of Sparta, who persuaded more than 12,000 people to sign a petition against the dam, said the decision was a "brave, courageous move" on the part of the governors.

Environmental groups argued that plant and bacteria growth would make the dam unsafe for swimming, that its pollution would kill aquatic life in the river, and that impounding the waters would upset the life cycle of shellfish as far south as the Delaware Bay.

Suspect Linked To Drug Ring

KINGSTON

An intensive investigation by Ulster County Sheriff's deputies Thursday resulted in the arrest of a Long Island man on a warrant whom local police feel was distributing stolen drugs in this area.

Arrested at 9 p.m., Thursday when he turned himself in was Vincent G. Kitik, 19, of Syosset. The Nassau County Sheriff's Department has issued warrants for two other persons believed to be involved in an illegal drug distribution ring that reportedly burglarized at least 20 Long Island drug stores and pharmaceutical houses, as well as an undetermined number of others extending, police feel, as far as Buffalo.

Detectives of the local sheriff's department became involved in the case through the July 26 arrest of James Stile, 18, of Accord on charges of burglary and ten drug and weapon charges in connection with a July 22 burglary at the Hy-Way Pharmacy in Rosendale. Both Kingston police and sheriff's department detectives cooperated in that arrest.

Sheriff Thomas Mayone said Stile was believed to be a local outlier for the state ring.

A car license plate at the scene of the Rosendale burglary led detectives to Nassau County, and a warrant was sworn out for Kitik from there.

When Nassau police went to serve the warrant, Kitik had reportedly just fled the scene five minutes earlier. He was traced to Hunter in Greene County and then to Boston, said Mayone.

A minister in Greene County, friend of Kitik's family, reportedly contacted him and talked him into giving himself up. This he did last night in Kingston. He was transported to Long Island to face charges there.

Sheriff Mayone made special mention of the good police work done by Lt. Nersesian and Detective King of his staff in coordinating the facts in the case.

Ulster Grand Jury Names Pair in Drug Indictment

KINGSTON — A Mt. Tremper man and a Shokan woman were named Thursday in a 10-count indictment handed up in Ulster County Court in connection with their arrest in April while allegedly in possession of various quantities of LSD, cocaine, barbiturates and marijuana.

The woman, Frances Bullock, 21, was additionally charged in a separate indictment with one count of criminal possession of a controlled substance in the second degree, a charge which carries a mandatory prison term with a maximum of life upon conviction.

She and Steven H. Abramowitz, 32, of Route 28, Mt. Tremper were charged in the 10-count indictment on eight counts of criminal possession of a controlled substance in the second and sixth degrees, both felonies.

The two were indicted by state police April 10 when the car in which they were riding was halted and Abramowitz was charged with driving while under the influence of drugs. A search of the car uncovered some 100 "hits" of LSD and quantities of other drugs, authorities said at the time of the arrests. A subsequent search of Miss Bullock at the Ulster County jail led to the discovery of 5,000 more "hits" of LSD on her person, police alleged.

Named in other indictments handed up in the partial report of the June term grand jury were:

• Richard Agler, 24, of Queens. Agler was named in two separate indictments, one charging him with first degree sexual abuse and second degree grand larceny and the other charging him with third degree burglary. Agler was arrested June 6 an alleged sexual attack on a Woodstock woman whose car he allegedly stole.

• John Whitworth, 21, Gary Joray, 22, and William Rashevich, 20, all of Napanoch. Indictments against the three accuse them of third degree burglary in connection with a series of alleged burglaries at an electronics firm in May. Three separate indictments were handed up in the case, one naming Whitworth and Joray, a second naming Whitworth and Rashevich and the third naming Joray alone.

• John Wakin (no age or address available), indicted on one count of third degree grand larceny in connection with an alleged theft in May from the First National Bank of Highland.

• Nelson Aviles, of Walkkill, indicted on one count of issuing a bad check.

Referendum Set In Rosendale

ROSENDALE

The Rosendale Town Board apparently believes in referendums to solicit the opinions of town residents.

Another has been set for Sept. 9, primary day, to ascertain whether voters prefer to retain the present three part-time assessors or go with the state-recommended one full-time professional.

A referendum was held in July wherein voters approved by a wide margin purchase of Sportsmen's Park for town recreation.

At its special meeting Wednesday night, the town board considered a petition presented this summer, signed by 150 residents, asking for the referendum. The petition charges that the present assessment method is unfair and inequitable.

"It wasn't really a legal petition," commented Supervisor Richard Glazer, "but it showed intent. If people want it, it should be." He said that there have been more complaints on assessment this year than in the recent past, and that those who want a change "as a group may be very large."

Some details remain to be worked out by the board. A proposed salary must be set for a fulltime professional and consideration must be given as to who would fill the post if approved. Some people favor retention of a current assessor and some may prefer a professional "from outside of town," said the supervisor.

Rosendale assessors are Edward Connolly, Percy Quick and George Mollenhauer.

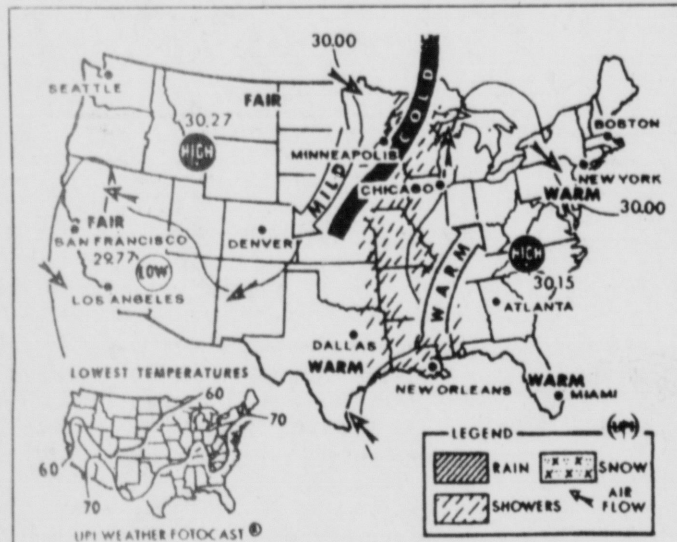

This is not the first time the people of Rosendale have been confronted by this same question.

Three years ago the state applied pressure to towns to abandon the part time board of assessors with one full time person. At that time Rosendale voters elected to keep the three-man board by a more than two to one margin.

Another major item acted upon in Rosendale was the acceptance of new highway construction specifications, "in line with state recommendations," according to Glazer.

They will require a higher quality road constructed by developers before the town will accept that road for maintenance as a town road. It includes better type of base, increased depth of base, and ditching requirements. Whereas formerly roads could be submitted without being sealed, that practice is now out and new roads must be blacktopped.

"We found it was too costly to the town," said Glazer of former specifications. The town routinely picks up several miles of new road a year. Details on the new specifications are available at the town clerk's office.

Hiss Examines Microfilm, Claims He's Cleared

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alger Hiss, whose trial projected Richard Nixon into the national spotlight 25 years ago, says there is nothing in the notorious "Pumpkin Papers" that proves he was a Russian spy.

In 1950, on the basis of two of five rolls of microfilm that reproduce those papers, Hiss was convicted of perjury for stating he never gave the film to Whittaker Chambers, an editor at Time magazine and an admitted Soviet spy.

The papers got their name from Chambers' contention he hid the documents in a hollowed-out pumpkin on Chambers' Maryland farm after he got them from Hiss.

Hiss, a former official with the U.S. State Department official and now a New York salesman, began a campaign 25 years after his conviction to get a look at the tapes to clear his name. With the help of the National Emergency Civil Liberties foundation, Hiss finally got that look.

On Thursday, for the first time, Hiss examined the film that then Rep. Richard M. Nixon used to send him to jail for 44 months.

He examined the microfilm at the U.S. attorney's office in Manhattan and told reporters, "They were certainly useless for espionage purposes."

Hiss said the information contained in the "Pumpkin Papers" related to nothing more crucial to national security than fire extinguishers, life rafts and fuel system valves.

He said the three strips of microfilm that he examined Thursday and two others in no way supported Chambers' charges "that I had been a Russian spy."

In all, there were five roles of microfilm. Only two were used in the Hiss trial. Those rolls were not inspected by Hiss because they are no longer legible.

The first trial ended in a hung jury in 1949. The second convicted Hiss — not of espionage, because the microfilm apparently did not impress either jury as being valuable to a spy — but of perjury for denying he gave the film to Chambers in the first place. But in hearings by the House

Un-American Activities Committee, young Congressman Nixon said they provided "documentary evidence of the most serious series of treasonable activities which has been launched against the government in the history of America."

Hiss said it was Nixon's use of the hearings, and the attendant publicity, that influenced the second jury to find him guilty.

Purge Begins in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The new left-wing junta has begun a purge of moderate military men opposed to the increasing Communist influence in Portugal.

The three-man junta, which took official control of Portugal's government Thursday, has removed the moderate leadership of a key commando unit stationed near Lisbon.

The military regime said nine top officers and four sergeants in the paratroop team were transferred from the sensitive suburban outpost to other army units in the country.

An official statement attributed the change in leadership to the need for "political consciousness in the mainstream of the revolutionary process."

But political analysts said the move appeared to be an attempt by the junta to head off the possibility of a coup against Portugal's left-wing rulers.

There were also reports that the moderate commander of a tank school in Santagon, a town north of Lisbon, would be dismissed from his post.

In addition, the junta was expected to replace moderate Maj. Melo Antunes as foreign minister with Cdr. Martins Guerreiro, a Communist supporter.

Antunes led an unsuccessful campaign by moderate military men to keep the junta from assuming supreme rule in the divided nation of 24 million.

The 30-member Revolutionary Council voted Thursday to hand over power to the three junta generals — Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves, President Francisco da Costa Gomes and Military Security Chief Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho.

The three left-wing generals then announced the formation of a new cabinet to replace a broad, left-of-center coalition that collapsed two weeks ago.

The junta said the names of the cabinet ministers would be released "in due time," but political sources said the members would mainly be Communists, Marxists and left-wing military men.

The Socialists and Popular Democrats, the two largest parties in Portugal, pulled out of the cabinet 14 days ago to protest the increasing power of the Communists.

Since then, violent demonstrations against the Communists and the armed force have rocked at least 29 towns throughout Portugal.

Sen. Percy Raps Selling Of Wheat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., says "incredibly reliable" sources tell him the Soviet grain failure is more severe than the Agriculture Department thinks — so the Russians may be in the U.S. market for even more grain.

But Richard Bell, assistant agriculture secretary, says his agency is sticking by its estimate the Russians will harvest 185 million tons of grain and will not be buying more than 14 million or 15 million tons of wheat, corn and barley here.

He insists a sale that size will have "minimal" impact on food prices in this country.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said in Chicago his organization is prepared to go "all the way," including a massive strike, to support union dockworkers if they decide not to ship American grain to the Soviet Union.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday raw farm prices rose 3 percent in the month ending July 15 and 14 percent in the last 12 months. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said the increase of 4½ cents per bushel in wheat prices was a "mild recovery prompted by the Russian wheat sale."

Percy says his sources estimate the Soviet crop at only 175 million tons. Originally, the Agriculture Department estimated Russian production at 210 million tons, then lowered the figure as a drought persisted.

Rain Drenches Florida, Midlands Continue Dry Spell

By United Press International

In this summer's weather, it seems no one can win. Rain is falling where it's not needed, and is nowhere in sight where farm livelihoods are depending on it.

Monsoon-like rains drenched portions of Florida for the fourth straight day Thursday. Vietnamese refugees covered themselves with plastic garbage bags huddled in corners of leaky tents at Eglin Air Force base, Fla., to keep dry.

But in the nation's drought-parched midlands, where farmers sorely needed a soaking rain to save scorched crops, the problem was quite the opposite.

Heavy rains soaked southwestern Kansas and some flooding was reported early Thursday. But forecasters said there was no rain in store for drought-stricken eastern Kansas, where dry weather withered corn crops.

Earl Foote, president of the newly formed Kansas Corn Growers Association, estimated the drought had destroyed 30 to 60 percent of the state's corn crop.

Kansas agriculture officials termed the association report too pessimistic but agreed crop damage is approaching that of last year, when drought-burned corn was plowed under for silage.

South Dakota Agriculture Department Marketing Director Dale Gullickson said some crops already were beyond help.

"It's generally agreed we are definitely hurt. Some areas are beyond help and others can be helped to some degree," he said.

The dry weather also cut into projected record corn yields in Iowa and Missouri.

Sections of western Illinois for the first time began reporting drought problems. Dry weather also was beginning to be a problem in portions of northern Illinois.

Ohio Agriculture Director John Stackhouse said that if Ohio's corn and soybean fields don't get rain within three to seven days there could be a 5 to 15 percent reduction in yield.

Northwest Florida and Alabama had more rain than they could handle.

Fifteen inches of rain fell in four days at Elgin AFB.

Refugees used plastic garbage bags for raincoats, and the base's dry cleaning plant operated 24 hours a day drying blankets. But a former South Vietnamese fighter pilot said the rain was not causing much concern.

"No sweat, we have monsoons," he said, recalling the weather of his homeland.

A twister raked a sparsely populated section of Key West, Fla., tearing out power lines and cutting off power to several motels and the airport. No buildings were damaged and there were no injuries.

Kissinger Critics Are At It Again

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — The White House backstairs battle over Henry Kissinger has come to Europe with President Ford.

Some presidential senior advisers are talking not so privately and not so cheerfully about the secretary of state's accompanying Ford to the 35-nation, 10 day European tour.

White House senior officials launched an anti-Kissinger balloon in Washington in the spring. Ford shot it down, making clear he was keeping Kissinger at his side.

A new model of the balloon has gone up in Helsinki.

Kissinger's critics in the White House this time do not paint him totally ugly. They speak of the secretary as a brilliant field marshal of foreign policy. They praise his mind, his talents and his energy.

But, according to the critics:

— Kissinger is clean of all blame in Watergate, Chilean and intelligence matters investigated by Congress. But, according to the nay-sayers, Kissinger might well fall afoul of some future investigation.

When a reporter suggested to one Kissinger critic among White House advisers that the only persons who could oust Kissinger were the President, or the secretary himself, the adviser said there was a third — Sen. Frank Church, the Idaho Democrat heading the Senate probe of cloak-and-dagger deeds.

If that happens, the critics say, it would be harmful to Ford's campaign for election in 1976. Better he go now, they say.

— Kissinger has been guilty of giving bad advice, they say. Did he not admit advising Ford to skip seeing dissident Russian prize-winning author Alexander Solzhenitsyn?

Kissinger did so advise — as Ford's adviser on foreign policy. But the White House, including Kissinger's critics, have not disclosed what Ford's domestic advisers suggested about the President's seeing the anti-Kremlin Russian.

They also said Kissinger tried to get Ford to refuse to visit the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz during his Monday-Tuesday visit to Poland lest it offend America's West German allies.

— The White House critics argue Kissinger is a poor team player. They say he shuns the chummy togetherness in which such Ford lieutenants as chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld and counselor Robert Hartmann exchange memos in staff work, despite any personal differences.

Kissinger, however, works as a man whose sole job is advising Ford on foreign policy, with no personal political loyalty fuzzing his duty.

The staff inside the White House puts its loyalty first to Ford the man. Kissinger puts it to the office of the President. He does not consider the White House aides his equal in his field.

Exercising His Right . . .

Chuck McCracken, San Bernardino, Calif., has begun exercising what he calls his "right to die". McCracken has made his own funeral arrangements. He has ordered doctors to halt the treatments that keep him alive. He expects to die of uremic poisoning—caused by malfunctioning kidney—in two or three weeks. McCracken uses his ham radio operation contacting amateur radio friends asking them to serve as his pallbearers. He has a wife and four children. (UPI)

Replacement Picked, but

By Carl Graham

KINGSTON The Kingston Board of Education, meeting in closed session after Thursday night's regular public meeting, has chosen a successor to John M. Devine, who has resigned.

Ward Todd, board president, said earlier today that a prospective member has been chosen, but that his or her identity would not be announced until the candidate has indicated that the appointment will be accepted.

Todd said that the person chosen had been selected from a field of several candidates. Prominently mentioned in local speculation have been four candidates who were defeated in the recent school board election and Mrs. Walter Donaruma, a frequent critic of the board's actions. Len Cane and Milton Reynolds, two of the defeated candidates, remained in the board meeting room at the Crown Street administrative center after the public session ended Thursday.

The board could have used a ninth member at the public meeting. After unanimously accepting Devine's resignation (his employer is transferring him to England Sept. 1.) they split sharply over a series of routine personnel matters, the kind usually passed without comment on the superintendent's recommendation.

Fred Hofbauer asked that four personnel resolutions be set aside for individual consideration instead of the usual group action on such matters. When the first resolution, to name a kindergarten teacher and an elementary music teacher, came to a vote, Hofbauer opposed it.

"My 10-point program was supposed to be given to the staff for recommendations," he said. "I think I deserve an answer before I approve. I question if these appointments are necessary."

The program he referred to caused a furor when he introduced it at the June 30 meeting as a policy directive for Superintendent Louis A. Salzmänn. Several of the policies were called "unworkable" or "illegal" by other board members and the program was referred to the administrative staff for review and a report.

Hofbauer was supported by newly elected Josephine Mcean, Richard Skala and Ronald Meyer and opposed by Evelyn Corsones, Doris Mulvin, W. James Penrose and Todd.

Todd had to rap for order repeatedly as an argument broke out between Mrs. Corsones and Hofbauer, with Mrs. Mulvin and Skala also getting involved. Todd finally acceded to Mrs. Corsones' request for a recess and took the board to another room for a private discussion. When they returned a half hour later they voted the four personnel items through unanimously and without comment.

In other action, the board:

- Approved a one-year contract, effective July 1, with the Kingston Teachers Federation. Details were not disclosed, but Barbara Fleckner, KTF president, said after the meeting "I think we did fairly well considering the economic situation."

- Heard a representative of the Ulster County Coalition for Family Planning express concern over reported administration censorship on "Introductory Health: A Vital Issue," a health instruction textbook. Todd said that the group's support of the textbook without cuts would be considered by the administration in its review.

- Awarded a lengthy series of bids to several different firms to furnish food for school cafeterias and approved a $1,188 bid for medical supplies from Tri-Med Surgical Company.

- Heard Attilio Contini of Rosendale commend the board for "good judgment used in formulating the 10-point (Hofbauer) plan to solve the overcrowded conditions at Kingston High school."

DEC Landfill Stand Angers Group

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON "When we started this thing (back in late May) we figured all we had to do was point out the defects with the site and the state would tell them where to go."

But Morris Salkind and other leaders of "the Concerned Citizens of Greater Kingston Area" quickly found out, said Salkind, that the State Department of Environmental Conservation was "another kind of advocate" when it came to landfills.

Not only has the DEC failed to support residents of Wilbur in their fight against a regional landfill—DEC says further engineering studies should be conducted on the site—Salkind contends the state has issued favorable reports on geology studies that don't exist.

The state sent a geologist to the site on June 17 and later reported "no glaring problems" with it. Salkind contends the geologist had not yet issued a report at the time state officials made that statement. Salkind is a geologist who lives in the area.

About 100 persons came to Wilbur last night for the second public meeting on the proposed landfill off Chapel Street sponsored by the aforementioned citizens group composed primarily of residents of the area who will be directly affected by the 88-acre landfill.

Three spokesmen for the group, Salkind, Donald Gregory and Hans Funccius, brought the gathering up to date on what has transpired between the time they last met in early spring and last night.

"We're trying to head this off in all directions," Gregory said. "We're attempting to show overwhelming opposition."

Eleventh Ward Alderman Daniel Smith said that he would ask Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo for a special meeting of it failing that, would seek seven signatures from the aldermen to call one. Smith said he'd introduce legislation at Tuesday's regular meeting of the Council but last Wednesday was the deadline for submitting business to the Council. That deadline has been waived on innumerable occasions.

Raymond Caddy of 99 Arlont Street suggested legal action, stating that "you're not going to win on an emotional or technical level. You need a lawyer. Time is on your side, not theirs. Get it into court. It's the only way you're going to win."

Many of the people—most of the residents of the area who walked to the meeting at the Holy Name Church—couldn't believe the city would allow a landfill especially one that served the region. "You mean to tell me the county of Ulster isn't big enough to get that stuff out of here," one elderly woman asked Salkind.

Salkind's committee recommended at least two other sites, the former Terry Brickyard and the former Hutton Brickyard. "The point of a landfill is to reclaim useless land, not ruin good land," he said.

The meeting broke up on an optimistic note with Salkind assuring those in attendance that the minimum goal of 600 signatures to place the issue on the ballot would be reached next week and that "100 percent" of the people living in the area of the landfill had signed a zoning petition against it.

"Let's not be pessimistic," he said. "These people we're fighting are nothing but a paper tiger. There will be no dump off Chapel Street. Never!"

"We are not going to lose. No way!"

Pay Hikes

The American taxpayer who runs the risk of being driven deaf by repeated pleas from Washington for more belt tightening has now been treated to the sight of our esteemed congressmen voting themselves whopping pay increases. This is the same Congress which could not get off dead center in passing legislation for a national energy program or a workable anti-recession blueprint. However, in the unseemly haste of two days, the Congress was sufficiently moved to pass their own salary hikes, plus those for federal judges and the vice president. Perhaps the hikes for judges are justified since the judiciary is increasingly losing qualified jurists to the private legal sector because of the huge differences in earnings. But this $50 million boost for congressmen is completely unwarranted. Especially galling is that this pay hike has been pegged to the cost-of-living index and can be expected to climb in each succeeding year. When Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th) was asked if salaries would be reduced if living costs came down in the future, he was quoted as saying "things don't happen like that down here."

And speaking of Fish, congratulations are in order to him and Congressman Benjamin Gilman (R-26th) and Matthew McHugh (D-27th) for having the common sense to vote nay on this measure. All three of these area representatives displayed a sense of responsibility and an awareness of the times by their actions.

But what about the many congressmen who voted aye and yet depict themselves as champions of the poor people? Specifically we're referring to such as Bella Abzug, Herman Badillo, Mario Biaggi and Shirley Chisholm. In this instance, their hypocrisy is showing.

The Fast Buck

When Chicago police arrived at the scene of an accident involving a transit bus recently, they found 28 passengers in the bus complaining of injuries, especially those invisible "whiplash" injuries common in motor vehicle accidents.

Then witnesses told police there were only five passengers in the bus when the crash occurred. The other 23 people had seen the accident and rushed aboard afterward to be listed as injured passengers.

That's depressing evidence of how some Americans view the opportunity to make a fast buck through an injury claim. Legislators should bear this in mind when they make doctors, lawyers, judges and insurance companies the main targets in efforts to hold down skyrocketing insurance rates, especially those for medical malpractice and auto liability.

Berry's World

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—It has become part of our political folklore for candidates to spout hokum. For some, lying becomes a habit they cannot break after they are elected to office.

This may explain why so many politicians are willing to place the full weight of the U.S. Government behind fraudulent falsehoods. At all levels of government, officials play loose with the truth to cover up mistakes, hide corruption and make bad policies look good.

But let an investigative reporter make a mistake or wrongly condemn someone in authority, and they are howls of outrage. Perhaps we may be excused, therefore, if we occasionally remind our readers who has been telling them the truth.

On March 21, 1972, for example, we reported that International Telephoe and Telegraph had feared its assets in Chile might be nationalized if Salvador Allende, a Marxist, were installed as president.

To protect its investments, ITT had tried to inveigle the U.S. Government to help subvert Chile's constitutional processes, ITT and CIA had actually plotted together to "create economic chaos in Chile," we reported, "hoping this would cause the Chilean army to pull a coup that would block Allende from coming to power."

White House aides and CIA officials alike categorically denied that the plot against Allende was anything more than a ITT pipe dream. But now, sworn testimony has established that the CIA schemed against Allende not only before but after he became president.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Truth Is Needed in Politics

We began another series of columns on May 1, 1972, charging that the FBI, CIA and Secret Service kept dossiers on the private lives of prominent Americans.

Patrick Gray, the acting FBI chief, called a press conference to deny it. "There are no dossiers or secret files," he declared. We responded on May 11 that we would be "happy to tell poor Pat, since he's new around the FBI, where some of the secret files are stashed."

Thereafter, we published the file numbers and quoted excerpts from secret dossiers on political figures, movie stars, football heroes and newsmen. The existence of these FBI-CIA dossiers, of course, is no longer disputed.

Each new development in the unfolding story of the CIA assassination attempts also confirms the details that we first published in a series of columns beginning Jan. 17, 1971. The plotters whom we named have now confessed their participation.

Yet our columns about the assassination plots were partially denied and dismissed four and a half years ago. "No plot was authorized or implemented to assassinate (Cuban Premier Fidel) Castro, (Dominican dictator Rafael) Trujillo or anyone else," lied former CIA chief John McCone in 1971.

On Nov. 8, 1974, we reported that "military intervention" against Middle East oil sheikdoms had been discussed at the highest Washington levels "as a last resort" to save the West from "economic ruin." The State Department professed to be aghast at such an idea.

But the following January 2, no less than Secretary of State Henry Kissinger acknowledged that force might be used — only in the "greatest emergency," of course — to prevent the "strangulation of the industrial world."

Again, when we warned on May 27, 1974, that the Greek military junta was in imminent danger of collapse, the State Department pooh-poohed our report. The junta fell two months later.

The political prevaricators have had to swallow dozens of denials since we took over the column in August 1969. The Chappaquiddick affair was then in the headlines. We reported on August 8 that Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., had arranged with his cousin, Joe Gargan, to take the blame for driving the car off the bridge.

Our story was not only denied but derided. Yet five years later, the Boston Globe assigned a squad of reporters to reinvestigate the incident. They spent several weeks examining every available detail. Their most fascinating finding: "In particular, Kennedy's cousin, Joseph Gargan, agreed at one point to take responsibility for the accident."

The latest attack upon our accuracy has come from Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, who called "totally false" our report that he was fronting for the patent lobby.

Yet on June 2, his patent bill had been written by the patent lobby.

"The actual wordings essentially are from papers submitted to me by such organizations as the American Patent Law Association, the America Bar Association . . . and by members of various (industry-dominated) patent committees, PPG (Pittsburgh Plate Glass) industries and others who submitted papers and/or letters," wrote Seto.

In other words, the Fong amendments were written by patent lawyers and the industries they serve. Among the corporations that contributed their views were Phillips Petroleum, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical and Allis-Chalmers, to name a few. All would profit from Fong's bill.

Fong's six-page attack on us on the Senate floor is full of falsehoods and distortions.

The politicians in Capitol Hill have promoted truth in lending and truth in advertising. The greater need is for truth in politics.

Inside Report

Anti-Rocky Drive Boomeranging

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — A long, exceedingly cordial visit with President Ford by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller resulted in backfiring the bumptious anti-Rockefeller campaign of Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, intended to appease the Republican right wing.

Rockefeller emerged from his regular weekly appointment of forthcoming presidential demonstrations to prove there is no rift between them. He had never felt closer to Mr. Ford, the Vice President told friends that evening. Indeed, the Rockefeller camp believes Callaway's tactics probably resulted from inexperience, possibly reflected an internal White House conspiracy but definitely did not represent the President's wishes.

Whatever his inspiration, Callaway has thoroughly botched the White House strategy for solving Mr. Ford's vice presidential problem: keep Rockefeller in limbo until 1976 convention time so that the President would not be carrying his liberal Vice President in a contest against Ronald Reagan for the presidential nomination. By going too far in disassociating the President from Rockefeller, Callaway has unwittingly brought the two men publicly together. "It couldn't be better if we planned it ourselves," a beaming Reagan operative told us.

The Ford nomination strategy has been enunciated repeatedly by his old political partner, Melvin R. Laird: We are interested only in Jerry Ford's nomination, not Rockefeller's; the vice presidency will be up to the convention. When Callaway resigned as Secretary of the Army to become Mr. Ford's campaign manager, he sounded the same theme with slightly heavier anti-Rockefeller overtones.

But the theme itself changed when Callaway, dining with political correspondents, took an overt anti-Rockefeller line. Callaway publicly expressed his previous private views that Rockefeller is the President's major political problem today and may be too old for the office. Those present felt Callaway was preoccupied with the Rockefeller problem, determined to force him from the ticket.

That change has been explained by two conflicting theories, one malignant, the other benign.

The benign theory goes to the fact that Callaway, nearly elected governor of Georgia in 1966, is overinfluenced by conservative southern Republicans who refuse to endorse Mr. Ford against Reagan while Rockefeller remains the President's preference. Making his debut as a national political manager, Callaway tilted too far toward his native South.

But advocates of the malignant theory cannot believe Bo Callaway would embark on such a course without higher authority. "He's taking orders from somebody," one Rockefeller aide told us. "The somebody, he contended, is White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld, skillful in surreptitious torpedo-firing — sometimes in the Vice President's direction.

Rumsfeld vigorously denied to Rockefeller agents any responsibility for Callaway's remarks, but suspicion lingers. Callaway was selected by Rumsfeld to be campaign manager, and Callaway recommended Rumsfeld as White House liaison with the campaign. At dinner Wednesday night, Callaway listed Don Rumsfeld as a good younger man to replace Rockefeller. Callaway was generally supported in the Thursday morning press briefing by Ron Nessen, allied with Rumsfeld in White House power alignments.

Nevertheless, Rockefeller is taking Rumsfeld's denials at face value. Meeting Mr. Ford, he described Callaway as an inept amateur and attributed his conduct to inexperience, not conspiratorial intent.

That undermines Callaway's game plan of offering up Rockefeller's carcass to appease Southern conservatives, who now will be alienated by Ford-Rockefeller camaraderie. Meanwhile, Callaway himself is under attack from Rockefeller Republicans such as Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the tart-tongued Senate minority leader, who sent this one-line note to Rumsfeld Thursday: "Is Callaway managing Reagan's campaign or Ford's?" An irritated Laird suspects his original strategy is now a dead letter.

These critics all are dwarfed by the one in the Oval office. According to a senior White House aide, Mr. Ford hoped campaign manager Callaway would do more organizing and less talking in the future. In fact, the ordinarily accessible Callaway spent a previously arranged three-day weekend out of Washington and out of touch.

For Callaway to reiterate his remarks would invite possible public repudiation from Mr. Ford. To back away from them would exacerbate the President's Southern problems. The beneficiaries are the Reaganites — or, in the long run, the Democrats.

Echoes in an Empty House

The house is deadly quiet. The car bakes in the driveway. Both bathrooms are empty. Charlie Chan stirs himself in the kitchen and his paws can be heard in the bedroom: click-click, click-click.

I keep busy. There are columns to write, and I like them to be stories with a point. Reader's Digest asks for an article about Frank Walker, father of six, killed trying to help a policeman in St. Vincent's Hospital.

There is a book to complete for William Morrow: "The Birth of the United States." Whatever I produce that may be called reasonably fair, a lot of the credit must go to Kelly.

No one asked her to study research. She was the one who asked thousands of questions. After 14 years, she's in charge of research. She has become so indispensable in so many ways that I hope she doesn't read this.

I miss the noise of the girls. It was good noises—silly laughter, hysterical shrieks, homework on the dining room table, a constant shredding of boys that neither would be "caught dead with."

Unless I have a golf date, or take my wife to dinner, I work in a bathrobe in bare feet. The dog doesn't complain; he has worn the same fur coat for seven years.

I beg my wife not to cook for two. She works over a roast, or chops, vegetables, gravy and ice cream with fresh strawberries. Too much work too late for too few.

I offer to do the dishes. It has come to that. Worse, she declines. It's a clipped, "No thenque." I explain that my mother regarded me as a first-class washer and dryer, one who never dropped a dish unless he was punched in the back by his little brother.

When the phone rings, we jump. When the mail arrives, we fight each other to see if there are notes from Virginia Lee, Gayle, Karen or Kathleen. The younger ones are the writers.

Karen writes: "Dear Parents: Paul and I loved spending the day with you last Sunday . . ." Paul says is her husband. Kathi writes: "Dear Folks: Howdy! I got a B-plus in my psychology test and I plan to kill that professor on Friday in class. If he knew how I slaved day and night for that test . . ."

After she kills the professor, I plan to kill Kathi for always writing, "Howdy!" It's a spuriously bright, phony word. She's spending the whole summer at Florida Atlantic University studying her howdy head off when she could be home doing the dishes.

I don't pretend to understand children. They seldom mature in concert with our predictions. Karen is a skinny, timid girl with a gorgeous face. If she sees a bug, Karen screams for help.

Since she married Paul, she now goes scuba diving. This kid hasn't the strength to lift a pound of spaghetti, but she carries a 70-pound oxygen tank on her back. Where oh where did I go wrong?

She has earned her teaching degree, but she has never deciphered north from south. She does phenomenally well teaching retarded and emotionally disturbed children, but she wouldn't know west if she was staring at an sunset.

And yet, when they were all home, there was a hell of a lot of noise around the house. Ever watch two girls making up for dates in one mirror? See, you haven't lived.

When I stop typing, I can hear the air conditioner. Somewhere, a laundry is spinning with my sports shirts. Once an hour, Kelly and the dog stick their heads into my office. She says, "What's new?" I try to think of something.

She must be checking to see if I'm still around. This evening we will dress for a candlelit dinner of broiled chicken, broccoli and mixed vegetables.

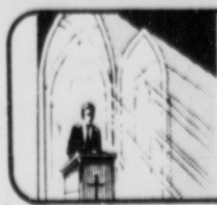

I will turn the stereo music on low and we may hum a few bars of something wild and new like "Tea for Two" or "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Then we will feed the dog—no candles for him—and turn the TV set up loud.

For an hour or two, we will be spellbound to find that there is a world outside, that people are happy or infuriated, that President Ford still cannot pronounce the word "judgment."

Then we will retire, she in her long formal blue gown, me in my pelt. We will tell each other what an exciting summer it has been and how much we enjoy listening to the clock on the night table . . .

Correction

A recent Freeman article concerning court action in connection with the July 20th slaying of David Krausz, 19, near Ellenville incorrectly stated that authorities believe Willie Washington, 24, of New York City fired the shot that killed the rabbinical student. Authorities allege that it was Mark Mason, 16, of Greenfield Park who fired the fatal bullet. Both are currently charged with second degree murder in connection with the slaying and are being held pending grand jury action.

Price Correction

In the advertisement in Wednesday's Freeman of Rosendale Food Center, Route 32, Rosendale, the weight on the Hunter Canned Hams was omitted. The 3-lb. can is $4.99 and the 5-lb. can is $8.15.

Pageant Continues

PALMYRA, N.Y. (UPI) — About 16,000 persons viewed Thursday night's performance of the 38th annual Hill Cumorah Pageant, America's largest annual religious spectacle.

The crowd watched under clear skies as 650 costumed young men and women reenacted the rise and fall of an ancient American civilization.

The play, which concludes Saturday night, depicts scenes from the Book of Mormon, which according to Mormon tradition, was given to Joseph Smith in 1825.

SPORTS TODAY

Good Start for Mets

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Manager Yogi Berra feels his New York Mets must win three games in their current five-game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates to make it a three-team pennant race in the National League East.

Thursday night the Mets got a good start on that goal, whipping the division-leading Pirates, 6-2.

Left-hander Jerry Koosman went the distance for his 10th victory in 18 decisions and first baseman Dave Kingman hit a pair of homers and batted in three runs.

The victory moved the Mets to within 3½ games of second-place Philadelphia and eight games behind Pittsburgh.

Berra said there was "a good chance" it would be a three-team race for the pennant.

"We'll have to take three out of five here to do it," he said. "Four out of five — if we can get them."

Kingman said the Mets' hitting was improving, and the team's confidence was on the rise.

"We've got the pitching," he said. "There's no question of that."

Kingman's second homer, his 24th of the season and 13th in the month of July, an all-time Mets record, was a two-run blast and broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning. Joe Torre followed with a two-run homer in the same frame.

Koosman got off to a rocky start as the Pirates scored two runs in the first inning.

"I deserved what happened to me in that inning," he said. "I gave (Dave) Parker a bad pitch." It happened with the bases loaded, and Parker hit the pitch for a single, driving in two runs.

Kingman hit his first homer in the second, but doubles by Jesus Alou and Rusty Staub in the fourth evened the score at 2-2.

Koosman admitted he has been inconsistent this season because of wildness.

"I'll pitch a game in Chicago and be wild, then I'll come in here and do well," he said. "It's hard to say what I'll do next."

"I'm one of the guys they are starting every fourth or fifth day. They are depending on me. I'll have to be consistent for us to win. Not just me, but everyone on the team."

Weiskopf Has It Together

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — There are a lot of four-letter words in Tom Weiskopf's vocabulary, but "gosh" and "darn" never have been known to be among them.

Weiskopf is one of the most temperamental men on the pro golf tour, and over the years his temper has cost him.

During one month last year, it cost him $2,500.

But when Weiskopf wins, as he did last week in the Canadian Open, he can be a model of decorum. He's acting that way again today, following a six-under-par 66 Thursday that left him a stroke off Rik Massengale's first-round lead in the Westchester Golf Classic, but that facade isn't guaranteed to last.

"As much as my temper has hurt me, it has helped me even more so," Weiskopf said.

"I don't like mediocrity, and I express myself very openly. If I held things inside of me, I'd have ulcers by now — and I wouldn't be playing golf."

Nobody can accuse Weiskopf of keeping things bottled up.

Last year he was fined $1,000 after playing hockey on a green at the PGA Championship, batting a ball around a half-dozen or so times. A few days after that fine was announced, he refused to sign his scorecard following a bad round in the World Open. That time the fine was $1,500.

TOM WEISKOPF

"I just can't stand there when I've hit a bad shot and say something like, 'Oh golly, gee, wasn't that too bad?'" Weiskopf said.

"I say those four-letter words to myself, the public can't hear them. I get mad, and I get myself going. That's my personality. That's the way God made me. I'm sorry I can't please everybody."

Right now Weiskopf is playing good golf. He suffered through a frustrating, winless 1974 after winning seven times, including the British Open, in 1973. He finally won again in April in Greensboro, finished a stroke behind Jack Nicklaus in the Masters, then beat Nicklaus in a sudden-death playoff for the Canadian Open title on Sunday. A victory here, even though Nicklaus isn't in the field, would put Weiskopf in the perfect frame of mind for next week's PGA Championship.

"I'm playing very, very well," he said.

Only a bogey at the 15th hole, where he missed the green with a long approach shot, kept Weiskopf from catching Massengale on Thursday.

Massengale, a career struggler who won for the first time in six years at Tallahassee, Fla., last April, once putted nine times to fashion his 65 on a hot, muggy day. Massengale was using an old, wooden-shafted, mallet-head putter his caddy gave him during his slump last winter.

"I haven't had a bad putting week since I got it," he said.

Jerry Pate, last year's U.S. Amateur champion who's making his U.S. pro debut in this $250,000 tournament, was tied for third at 67, five under, with Tommy Aaron and Pat Fitzsimons.

British Open champion Tom Watson, Gene Littler, Rod Funseth, Buddy Allin and Dick Lotz had 68s.

Johnny Miller, the defending champion, had 69 in the first round, and the last two U.S. Open champions, Hale Irwin and Lou Graham, had 72s. Gary Player a 75.

Besides Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino also are skipping this event to prepare for the PGA Championship.

Braves Rout New Paltz In Rookie League Game

KINGSTON — Even a dozen walks by pitcher Bob Marz couldn't keep the Kingston Braves away from their 17th Hudson Valley Rookie League victory in 20 games at Dietz Stadium Thursday. Unloading a 14-hit attack on a pair of New Paltz hurlers, the Braves crushed the Falcons, 13-3.

Marz managed to throw six shutout innings before the Falcons broke the spell in the seventh, and even at that he twice made things sticky for himself by walking the bases full. No matter. Marz did the rest of his job by fanning seven and allowing only two hits, and he had lots of cushion to sit on.

Tom Gallo got it going for the winners in the first, clipping loser Jeff Purcell with a two-run double. Charlie Mazzola, who had three hits in the game, had already scored on a Falcon error, so Marz had a 3-0 lead.

It stayed that way while Marz sweated out jams in the third and fifth. In the home fifth, Rich Koegel homered. In the sixth, the Braves batted around in a nine run party.

Marz tripled to herald Purcell's exit. Paul Runge singled him home. Mazzola ripped another hit, and Karl Lezette drew a walk, so Roger Plantier stepped in for the Falcons to try to stop the carnage.

He wasn't much help. Jerry Hawkins greeted the new pitcher with a three-run triple, Koegel and Tom Whitaker slapped a couple of more hits through the infield, and after the New Paltz defense booted the ball around a little, Chris Kilroy capped the whole thing with a three-run homer.

Plantier, who had both hits off Marz, drilled a double in the final frame to score two runs. Marz walked four in that inning, but with a 13-run lead his wildness was no longer a factor.

Kingston hits the road Saturday to face the Wappingers Fall Ions in a 5:30 p.m. start.

Jimmy Connors Is Alive And Well in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Jimmy Connors is alive and well in Louisville.

Feeling so well, in fact, that he may return to the tournament trail next week either at Indianapolis or at Bretton Woods, N.H., after a month's layoff for a tendons injury to his right leg.

Connors reported that he was feeling fine during an impromptu news conference Thursday at the $100,000 Louisville Pro Tennis Classic, where he chose to make a surprise appearance as a self-styled "coach" for Ilie Nastase.

The big question popped by reporters was whether Connors now would be willing to play on the U.S. Davis Cup team with Tony Trabert as the new captain. But he sidestepped it deftly.

"We'll just have to wait on that until the dust settles," he said. "I'll be happy to sit down and talk with Trabert about it. But I don't think now is the time to make any decisions."

One of the big reasons why Connors has refused to play on the U.S. Davis Cup team was his dislike for Dennis Ralston, Trabert's predecessor as team captain.

Connors was among the spectators Thursday night when Nastase, his good buddy and doubles partner, teamed up with Arthur Ashe for the first time to defeat the youthful duo of Freddie DeJesus and Peter Fleming, 6-3, 7-6. Nastase's clowning antics drew frequent laughter from the crowd during the match.

It seemed ironic that Ashe had replaced Connors as Nastase's doubles partner inasmuch as Connors is suing Ashe for $5 million in a character defamation suit. All that aside, Connors indicated Thursday that Ashe would be his choice for an opponent in his next nationally televised challenge match set for Feb. 28 in Las Vegas. He said he would like to avenge his upset by the smoothstroking veteran in the Wimbledon final July 5.

In Thursday's second-round matches the biggest upset occurred when 8th-seeded Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., was beaten by Bernie Mitton, a 20-year-old South African who defeated Connors in a British match in June. Mitton downed Solomon, 7-6, 6-4.

Top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, defending his Louisville Classic championship, had to rally to defeat Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 4-6, 6-3, 7-6. In the featured nighttime singles match, fourth-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain eliminated Bill Brown, a 30-year-old Californian, 6-4, 6-3.

Bucci Signs With Nets

Former Newburgh Free Academy and Manhattan College basketball star George Bucci (C) is flanked by New York Nets' president Roy Boe (L) and coach Kevin Loughery following his signing with American Basketball Association club. Bucci, who was No. 2 pick of Nets and No.

3 choice of NBA Buffalo Braves, played on the outstanding NFA clubs of the late 60's with Larry Frazier, Wade Pittman, Jim Rogers, and Ralph Petrillo. Bucci averaged 20 points a game during his senior season at Manhattan and was an excellent rebounder for his 6-3 size. (UPI)

Bosox Pitching Getting Stronger

By UPI

That huge question mark which has been hanging over the Boston Red Sox all season — their pitching staff — is beginning to look more like an exclamation point to a pennant-winning season.

Boston pitching is historically a problem if only because the strain of pitching in Fenway Park, one of the last of the little old parks, can take its toll on the strongest of staffs.

But the Red Sox' pitching appears to be getting stronger as the current season goes on, placing additional pressure on the American League's Eastern Division would-be contenders.

The Red Sox ballooned their AL East lead to nine games Thursday night when they swept a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers, 3-2 and 6-1. Bill Lee allowed 11 hits, but went the distance in the 10-inning opener to raise his record to 14-6 and then Roger Moret scattered nine hits in the nightcap lifting his mark to 8-1.

The Minnesota Twins defeated the Kansas City Royals, 7-2, in the other AL game, while in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds beat the San Francisco Giants, 11-6; the New York Mets topped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2; the Montreal Expos downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-4; the San Diego Padres defeated the Houston Astros, 5-3, and the Atlanta Braves scored an 11-10 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Jim Rice's 10th-inning single drove in the winning run for the Red Sox in the first game and dealt Bob Reynolds his second loss for the Tigers. Moret, who teamed with Lee to pitch the Red Sox to a doubleheader sweep of the New York Yankees last Sunday, won the second game with the help of two hits each by Denny Doyle and Bernie Carbo.

Twins 7 Royals 2
Eric Soderholm, Tony Oliva and Phil Roof homered and drove in a total of six runs for the Twins as Jim Hughes evened his record at 9-9. Al Fitzmorris was hammered for six runs and eight hits in 4 1-3 innings and suffered his ninth loss against 10 victories.

Reds 11 Giants 6
Johnny Bench hit a three-run homer off John Montefusco, who had predicted before the game that he would strike out the Cincinnati star four times, to lead the Reds' 12-hit attack. Daryl Chaney also had three hits for the Reds, who handed Montefusco his fifth loss against 10 wins.

Clay Kirby won his eighth game for the Reds with the closest relief pitching of Clay Carroll.

Expos 7 Phillies 4
Larry Parrish and Jim Dwyer drove in two runs each in leading the Expos to their win over the Phillies. Ron Schueler was rapped for five hits and six runs in 4 1-3 innings, suffering the loss, while Dan Warthen went six innings for his fifth win for the Expos. Dwyer and Larry Bowa hit homers.

Padres 5 Astros 3
Errors by catcher Skip Jutze and shortstop Larry Milbourne enabled the Padres to score their decisive runs in the eighth inning. Hector Torres had three hits and Mike Ivie homered for San Diego helping to give Dave Tomlin his second win.

Cubs 5 Cardinals 3
The Cubs snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning with the aid of Jerry Morales' double and Manny Trillo's squeeze bunt to give rookie Paul Reuschel his first win. Willie Davis had four hits for the Cardinals.

Braves 11 Dodgers 10
Rowland Office's three-run homer climaxed a six-run ninth inning rally which lifted the Braves to their victory over the Dodgers. The blow came off ironman reliever Mike Marshall after the Dodgers took a five-run lead into the ninth. Tom House, the Braves' sixth pitcher of the game, received credit for his fourth win.

Reds Fight

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati outfielder Cesar Geronimo and relief pitcher Pedro Borbon exchanged punches in a clubhouse fight Thursday night prior to the Reds' game with the San Francisco Giants.

Ironically, the only serious casualty was outfielder Merv Rettenmund, who was taken to the hospital for stitches in the big toe, where he was spiked while attempting to break up the scuffle.

"I didn't know anything about it until Johnny (Bench) came into my office and told me that Rettenmund had to be taken to the hospital," manager Sparky Anderson said.

"I heard them talking loud but the conversation was in Spanish and I didn't realize it was a heated argument until the swinging started or I would have broken it up," coach Alex Grammas said.

Anderson held a clubhouse meeting following the fight. However, he said no disciplinary action would be taken.

The Reds leave for Los Angeles and a three-game series with the Dodgers after their game with the Giants.

"Borbon and Geronimo have been roommates, so that will have to be changed," Anderson said.

"Maybe we'll become world champions like Oakland now," Anderson quipped. "Geronimo's a center fielder and Borbon's a pitcher. I might be a little more concerned if there had been a fight between a pitcher and catcher."

Stars Face Impossible Task

CHICAGO (UPI) — John McKay's 1975 College All-Star team faces an almost impossible task in trying to beat the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers in tonight's 42nd annual game between the best of the graduating collegians and the pro football titleholders.

Yet, the All-Stars have won nine times in the series and McKay's team two years ago came close to an upset victory, losing by a 14-3 count to the Miami Dolphins.

"We're going to try to exploit the Pittsburgh defense," said McKay, the Southern California coach making his second appearance as All-Star leader. "Most teams couldn't do that last year against this club, but we're certainly going to try to do it."

Exploitation of the Pittsburgh defense meant running, and the chance for success seemed slim unless the Steelers go into the game with a ho-hum attitude.

Pittsburgh held the Minnesota Vikings to only 17 yards rushing in the Super Bowl and ranked among the NFL's toughest defensive clubs.

"If we can't run, it'll be almost impossible to protect the passer," McKay said, "because they'll know he's going to pass and just tee off on him. If we can't protect the passer, we have very little chance."

"If we can play real solid defense and get a break or two, we have a chance for victory."

The Steelers were a 17-point favorite to rack up the 10th straight victory and the 30th over all for the pros in the series.

While McKay rated his All Star defense as "solid," it has had no scrimmaging during the training camp.

"I think I'm going to face some receivers that are better than any I faced in college," free safety Marvin Cobb said. "But it's still a football game and I'll still have the same assignment and the same job I had in college."

"There are so many different kinds of coverage, and mostly the free safety's main responsibility is pass and with the pros I think more so even than in college. They pass a lot."

The All Star offense will be geared to quarterback Steve Bartkowski from California, nominated by McKay to start, with Steve Joachim of Temple in reserve.

Stan Wintory of Arkansas State was to start at fullback and carry the load of protecting the quarterback on pass plays, while Walter Payton, if healthy, was expected to start at running back.

Payton has been suffering from a swollen right elbow and could see only part-time action. McKay planned, though, to get every one of his 52 player squad into the game unless some are unable to play because of injury.

Foreman's Feline Foe

Former heavyweight boxing champ George Foreman, who is looking forward to a rematch with heavyweight champ Muhammad Ali, "spars" with Bombay, a 450-pound Bengal tiger at Marine World/Africa USA, Redwood City, Calif. Foreman, who visited the park to specifically see the tiger show, thought "the trainer was crazy to enter the ring with the big cats," and from the look on his face it appears George is wary about being this close to the jungle feline. 'Family Unity' Is Message In Hit Comedy Revival

By Dorothy A. Narel

WOODSTOCK

No doubt about it, 1975 is a year for nostalgia. The air waves are filled with yesterday's recordings of Artie Shaw playing those long arpeggios on his clarinet, swing music by the Dorsey Brothers can be heard while Glenn Miller and his band are capturing the "Sweet music" corner. The upcoming Bicentennial Celebration draws us even deeper into the past by involving us in recalling and reclaiming parts of our heritage. "Memorabilia" seems to be today's password.

And so it is in Woodstock this week. On Wednesday night, first nighters walked into the past with the first revival of an old comedy hit You Can't Take It With You. It was like walking into an old country store or watching an "oldie" on the late, late show. The production evoked mixed reactions in the audience.

For this reviewer, there is still lots of charm in the Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman play with its clever lines and highspots of comedy but, nonetheless, it remains very dated. Its cast, 19 in all, headed by Ruth Gilbert of stage and TV fame, has a combined volume of acting credits making it second to none and, as Miss Gilbert told LIFE, the play's theme and "message" is one that might well be embraced again by our so-called contemporary world. It's family unity. We concur on that point. If audiences come away with the impact, they will have absorbed the "meat" of the evening.

"You Can't Take It With You" should have appeal to a wide segment of the public. It's family entertainment — a rare vehicle these days.

Now that the "first nighter" performance is out of the way, the talented cast can relax and sail through its two-week engagement at the Playhouse. With proper tightening of action and timing, the revival should enjoy a successful engagement. Its star, Ruth Gilbert, is responsible for organizing a revival of the comedy and hopes to put it on Broadway. The Woodstock Playhouse production is a pre-Broadway revival try-out.

As the mother of a zany stage family, Miss Gilbert delivers a performance that is polished and smooth and in the best of professional traditions. The tiny, bird-like actress, who commands a good deal of the action on stage, is surrounded with many fine talents. In the opening act you find her at a typewriter trying desperately to work out a plot. As a writer in the Moss-Kaufman play she has little talent, but as an actress she can pop off such lines as "... with 40 monks and one girl in a monastery, you'd think something would happen," without being the least bit offensive.

Rheba, the family's housekeeper, and her boyfriend Donald capture a good deal of the play's comedy. They are portrayed very capably by Rhonda Hansom and Norman Wilkerson III. Another bright spot is taken by Boris Kolenkov, the Russian ballet teacher, played by Elliott Cukor.

Good character acting is delivered by Mr. Kirby, portrayed by Danny Ocko; Mrs. Kirby played by Mildred Dana, and Stephanie Satie in the role of Essie.

Also giving creditable performances were Kenneth Roberts in the role of Miss Gilbert's stage husband; Bernard Frawley as Mr. DePinna, the man engaged in making and blowing up fireworks; Kevin Convery in the role of Ed; David O. Petersen; Barbara Dana as Alice Sycamore, the girl in love with the boss' son played by Lewis Arlt; James Hummert in the role of Henderson; Marcia Savella as Gay Wellington.

Rounding out the cast are James Hummert, J.P. O'Shaughnessy, James Vicevich and Linda Geiser, the latter turning in a good job as Russian royalty.

Members of any cast will admit any opening night is a tough hurdle. Miss Gilbert had referred to it in a previous interview with this reviewer. In talking about the Broadway personalities expected to attend the revival during its two weeks run in Woodstock, she said: "I hope they are kind enough NOT to come opening night."

You Can't Take It With You should have appeal to a wide segment of the public. It's family entertainment — a rare vehicle these days. If you are an advocate of old handcrafts, if you enjoy the atmosphere of a Victorian ice cream parlour, if you applaud the cohesiveness of a disorganized but warm family life, you will enjoy this comedy.

It's like an old family — it boasts an endearing style all its own.

The play will be staged now through August 10.

Olde Timers' Weekend in Saugerties August 9-10

Another gala is in the works for the third annual Olde Timers' Weekend in Saugerties under the sponsorship of the Saugerties Village Business Association.

The event — put together through the cooperation of the entire community — is set for August 9 and 10 and from all indications this third annual "walk down memory lane" will be the best yet.

In fact, in addition to the community backing this two-day festival, there's been support from the village, town, county and state officials as well as religious, social, sports and civic organizations.

Among the highlights will be:

The local firehouse will be open as a museum of old days fire equipment, a gallery of awards, ribbons, trophies and photographic displays of past fire chiefs, firemen and fires.

The local theater will feature appropriate films — Laurel and Hardy, Buster Keaton and the like, and at old time prices.

The local senior citizens' square dance club, better known as the "Senior Swingers," has been busy all year sewing costumes and practicing squares for this annual performance — right under the traffic light on Main Street in Saugerties. And there will be singing and dancing in the streets as well without worrying about traffic.

With the official nod of the State Transportation Department, Routes 9W, 212 and 32 will be re-routed for the day allowing the business district of the village to line its traffic-free streets with booths of every description in addition to the musical treats. "Papa Bear's" popular band will be on hand as well as a rock group known as the Mid-Night Special.

One of the highlights on Sunday, Aug. 10, will be the Saugerties Antique Auto Club show. Some 100 antique auto collectors, their cars and their families will be in Saugerties for this feature.

Benefitting from the third annual Saugerties Olde Timers' Day will be the Saugerties Grist Mill, located in Seamon Park.

Since Saugerties received its name from the original mill, built sometime between 1712 and 1748, the entire Saugerties community is striving to realize the dream of restoring this historic landmark for the Bicentennial Year of 1976.

Two Puppet shows will be presented by the Crosswinds Puppeteers during the annual Rosendale Library Fair set for Saturday, Aug. 9. The puppeteers will be on stage for 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. performances. Children participating include Ruth Kaman, Carolyn Beaulieu, Michelle Lovy, Elizabeth Nelli, Kelly Thomas, Jennifer Kaman, Linda Beaulieu and Katie O'Hara under the direction of Mrs. Alice Valentine of Hurley. The library fair hours on Saturday are from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

During these past summer months there have been seven college students on the staff of the Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz who have been doing specialized work in the museum field.

And, according to Kenneth Hasbrouck, president of the society, one of the students, Anne Houghtaling, has taken on a project of illustrating several items of interest in the collection of the society.

A report on this project by Anne Houghtaling follows:

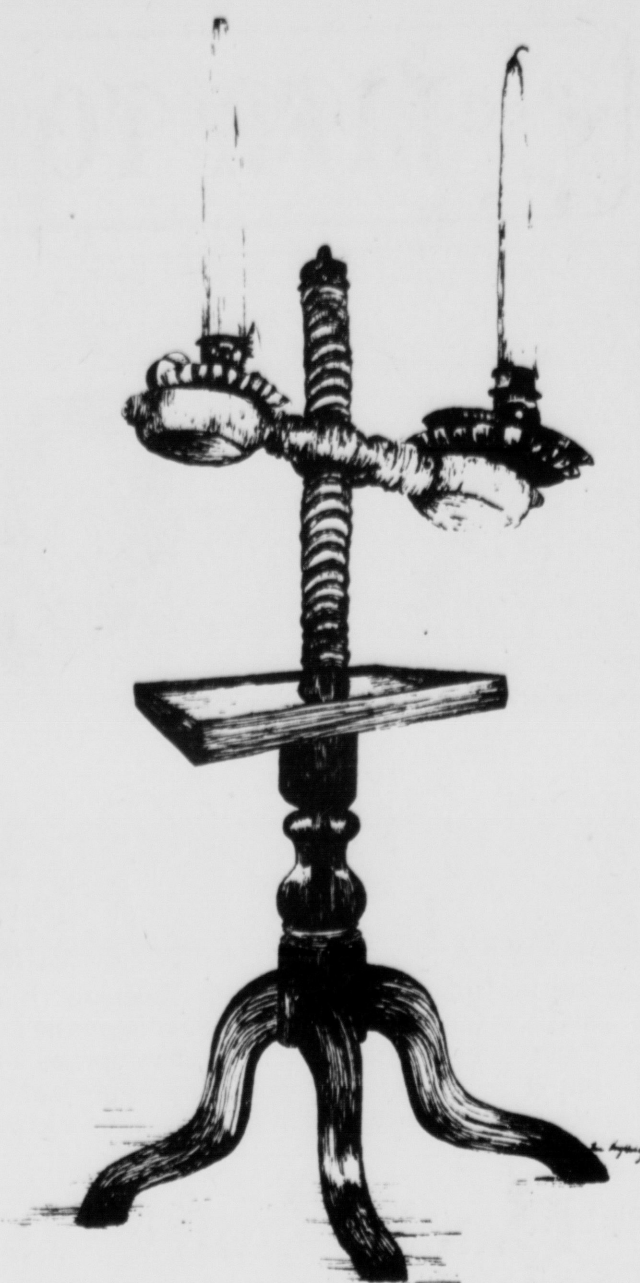

"The illustrations to be shown from the society's collection are two seventeenth century luxuries which are displayed today in the Abraham Hasbrouck House on Huguenot Street, in New Paltz. These pieces are excellent examples of the ingenious minds of our past ancestors. The basic idea for both of them are European in origin. The Huguenots undergoing persecutions in their home country, France, established themselves in New Paltz. They could bring little with them, and so from memory they duplicated many of the designs of their furnishings which they had left behind.

"The adjustable candle stand was invented by some unknown person who realized the need for controlled lighting. The purpose of the stand enabled one to screw the arm up or down according to the desired light for possible reading near a fire. It rests on a tripod base, is made entirely of wood, and still retains parts of its original red paint. It is approximately three feet high and the flat shelf was appropriate for the placement of a book. The candles were put into hand-hammered tin holders which are removable, along with a cone-shaped candle snuffer. The article is over 200 years old; was a possession of Abraham Hasbrouck, a patentee of the settlement of New Paltz.

"The Huguenots were wealthy people and in any prosperous home there was always a room which was kept clean and scrubbed for the guests, known as the parlor. Walking into this room in the Abraham Hasbrouck House one sees a pair of footstools leading up to what looks like a cupboard. When the pine paneled doors are opened a bed built into an alcove is revealed. The idea of the alcove bed was adopted from the Dutch who made this furnishing an architectural feature in their home. The bed was easily concealed during the daytime and opened at night for use. The occupant would sleep on a straw mattress with linen sheets and a hand woven wool blanket was used for warmth.

"These unique and interesting features are only some of the many treasures which the Huguenot Historical Society has on exhibition today in New Paltz."

THE ADJUSTABLE CANDLE STAND

Lamp Collection At Jarvis Gallery

An extensive collection of beautiful and useful miniature lamps dating back to Victorian days can now be seen at Jarvis Gallery, 2 Broadway Road, Woodstock.

According to author Mrs. Edward J. Delmore, these miniature lamps were used in children's rooms as night lights. They replaced candle light even though these lamps in many instances gave a more subdued light than the candle, people also felt they were much safer.

Glass houses during the period of the 1870's made these little lamps and they represent a phase in American glass making that produced quality and skillful workmanship. Since most of the lamps were never marked, makers are impossible to trace.

At Jarvis Gallery, miniature oil lamps can be seen in valuable satin glass, color glass, patterned glass, animal and novelties styles. One lamp rotates with the heat so its owner could tell time, another features the popular Moss Rose and a valuable Amberina lamp is also included in the collection.

Other interesting lamps from the Victorian era to be found in rare collections includes a nursery lamp, a Little Harry's Night Light made with an opaque chimney shade standing only three and a half inches high, and a Stein lamp with smiling monk smoking a cigar on front and large tasseled pipe on the reverse side.

The Victorian miniature oil lamp exhibit will be exhibited at Jarvis Gallery beginning Friday, Aug. 8. Admission is free. Gallery hours are Thursdays through Sundays from 1-6 p.m.

Bachelor Desires to Play Shrink

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old bachelor who recently met a very beautiful, 40-year-old woman with whom I fell head over heels in love.

She's a medical technician and is very intelligent, but she's a bundle of nerves. She bites her nails down so far they sometimes bleed. She's never married, vows she is a virgin and insists that if she marries, she will remain a virgin. "Sex," she says, "is the original sin."

She is a clothes "nut". Once she showed me (by actual count) 81 pants suits and 103 pairs of shoes (most of which had never been worn.)

Several years back, she was in a serious auto accident (her mother was driving). She went through the windshield and was laid up for two years. She changes her mind in a matter of seconds. For instance: Last night, she asked me to take her to a steak house because she wanted a steak. Once there, she ordered fish. Then she sent it back because it was "spoiled." (I'm sure it wasn't.) Afterward, we went to a movie she wanted to see, but we left in the middle because she decided it was "no good."

I realize she is not very stable. I've never walked away from a challenge, and I think I can help her. Am I barking up the wrong tree?

HANGING IN THERE DEAR HANGING: Unless you are a psychiatrist, you are not only barking up the wrong tree but in the wrong forest. The woman is in need of psychiatric treatment. The best way to help her is to persuade her to get it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young wife. My husband and I have been married for two months, and whenever I displease him, he goes out and sleeps on the couch to punish me.

I have tried to talk him into coming back to our bed, but he won't listen to me; he just stays out there until he falls asleep.

Please don't tell me to just let him stay on the couch because I want him in bed with me.

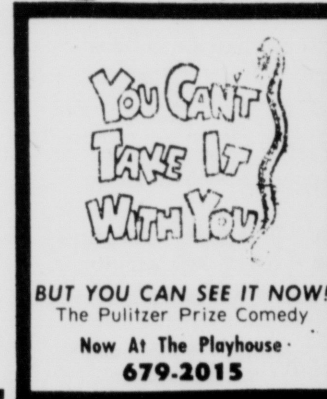

EMPTY BED DEAR EMPTY: Try reverse psychology. When he leaves your bed for the couch, don't say a word. Let him stay there, and when he realizes that he isn't getting the kind of reaction he expected from you, he'll give up the childish bit and return to your bed. Wanna bet?

DEAR ABBY: The man I have been living with and I would like to get married, but we don't want it in the newspapers because our grandchildren think we are already married.

Is it possible to do it here (don't mention the town, please), or do we have to go elsewhere? Is there a three-day waiting period? How about blood tests?

I have been married before, but he hasn't. He helped me raise my children, and we are raising a grandchild left to us by my daughter who recently died.

WANTS TO KNOW DEAR WANTS: The information you seek is available through your local county clerk. In some states (California is one), you can be married by a clergyman; the marriage will be recorded in the church records but by request will not be made public in the newspapers.

Refuse Release Of Police Papers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Police Commission has refused to make public the 10-volume police summary of the investigation into the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy in 1968.

The city attorney's office advised Thursday that to release the study would violate the right of privacy of persons involved and would breach confidential relationships, including relationships with other law enforcement agencies, the commission said.

But the commissioners took steps to set up other means of making public some of the file, such as replying to written questions. Police Chief Edward M. Davis immediately replied that even that would be going too far.

There have been repeated calls in the last two years for a reopening of the investigation, mostly founded on supposed conflicts and irregularities in the ballistic evidence that helped convict Sirhan B. Sirhan, now serving a life prison term for the assassination.

The request for the file came from CBS-TV, former New York Congressman Allard Lowenstein — who has been pressing for a new investigation of the assassination — and Paul Schrade, a former United Auto Workers official who was with Kennedy and was wounded in the forehead by the assassin.

Schrade said he would announce today what further steps he would take. An attorney for CBS said he would file suit for the release of the summary.

Commission president Samuel Williams said the problem was to balance the "fundamentally competing values" of the public's right to know about "this supreme national tragedy" and the need to protect the confidentiality of police investigations.

Police Grads Lauded

STONE RIDGE Associate Professor Theodore Dietz, coordinator of the Criminal Justice Program at Ulster County Community College, has commended four members of the New York State Police who recently received associate in applied science degrees from the college after completing a two-year Criminal Justice Program.

The four are Sgt. Joseph Henry Ellsworth, of Accord; Investigator Jack Rickard Osmark, of Highland; Trooper Anthony John Scarselli, of Saugerties; and Investigator Edward A. Zeboris, of Cortland.

He explained that these four graduates join seven other troopers who have received their degrees in previous years. The seven are Sgt. Peter Brennan, of Gardiner, Investigator

"We have a desire to release whatever information can be released without violating the rights of innocent citizens of this community and we hope to develop a forum and procedure for release of this information," Williams said.

He said the commission instructed the city attorney to draw up a method by which some information could be made public.

The police chief said "there is a lot of danger in even partial release of information. If witnesses know that some or any part of what they say might get out and put them in peril ... I think it would have a series adverse impact on our investigations in the future."

Such a procedure would soon spread to other cases, including the Manson Family murders, the decades-old unsolved "Black Dahlia" case and eventually burden the department with "an almost impossible process of going back into the solved and unsolved cases of the department," Davis said.

Klein Attacks DA Vogt

KINGSTON County Legislator Lewis Klein, who has co-sponsored legislation that would require a legislative investigation of the county highway department, criticized District Attorney Francis J. Vogt today for not carrying his own investigation of that department through the grand jury process.

"He owes us more," Klein said of Vogt's probe of allegations against Jose Camallonga, highway superintendent of the county.

Vogt said at a press conference on Tuesday that he was not going to present the Camallonga case to a grand jury because his investigation had discovered no criminality in charges and allegations raised against Camallonga. "While it is not my intention to question Mr. Vogt's finding of no criminality," Klein said, "I do very readily question his discretion in refusing to refer the matter to a grand jury for its investigation."

Klein, a lawyer, quoted state statute which "specifically authorizes the district attorney to refer to a grand jury and empowers a grand jury to investigate any available evidence concerning misconduct, nonfeasance or neglect in public office by a public servant, such as Mr. Camallonga, whether criminal or not."

"Clearly a grand jury investigation is more likely to produce all available evidence, than is a private investigation by a district attorney," Klein asserted, noting that witnesses before a grand jury are under oath and can be cited for contempt for refusal to provide information.

Concluding, Klein said, "I believe that protection of the rights and property of Ulster County citizens warrant and deserve the fullest and most

Consumer Recovery

POUGHKEEPSIE Mid-Hudson Valley consumers served by the Poughkeepsie office of the New York State Department of Law were the beneficiaries of $184,747 in restitution recovered during the first six months of 1975, according to attorney General Louis Lefkowitz.

The recoveries, including monies refunded and goods and services recovered, were made through Assistant Attorney General Herbert Wallace in charge of the Poughkeepsie office.

About 400 residents of the area personally appeared at the office to register complaints in those six months. In the period, 1,195 complaint files were opened and 1,239 closed. Phone inquiries averaged 35 per day.

Central Hudson provides electric service to about 133,000 persons in southeastern New York.

However, the commission rejected an immediate increase and scheduled an Aug. 19 hearing at 1 p.m. in the Dutchess County Office Building in Poughkeepsie.

The company had asked for a 2.49 percent hike, hoping to avoid hearings, which are required in all rate increase cases of 2.5 percent or more than $100,000, the commission said.

The commission approved a $12.2 million annual rate increase for the utility in December, but the utility said new costs made another hike necessary.

diligent investigation possible ... I do not believe Mr. Vogt's investigation provided this degree of protection."

Klein, a lawyer, quoted state statute which "specifically authorizes the district attorney to refer to a grand jury and empowers a grand jury to investigate any available evidence concerning misconduct, nonfeasance or neglect in public office by a public servant, such as Mr. Camallonga, whether criminal or not."

Your Astrograph

For Saturday, Aug. 2, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have some good ideas today. You'll try the pleasurable ones, shelving others more practical.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your financial prospects are mixed today. However, when you total the score gains, will outweigh losses marginally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Though in a gregarious mood today, you're hypersensitive to the way others treat you. Don't let it mar your fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't accept something long desired if it means offending a friend or associate. Later, you can have it without strings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a bit of a wheeler-dealer today. You may pick up one tab too many to suit your aching purse.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could profit today by shrewd tactics, but not like yourself too well if you feel you're taking advantage of less-alert souls.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An idea you're promoting will stand on its own. You could cloud the deal if you try to embellish on it too much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In a situation where you and a partner share an interest, seek only your fair share.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're apt to change your mind once too often today and miff a close friend. She felt your decision was firm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your ambitious interests are overly strong today. You'll do things without gaining pleasure. Take time to smell the roses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could take a chance, with the outcome highly speculative, even though your common sense tells you "No."

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A member of your family is entitled to your praise for going out of her way for you. Give her a few pats.

TEEN FORUM

By Dr. Jean Adams

WARMUP: (Q.) (Comment) May I share my remedy with "Seven Frost-Bitten Months," the girl whose boy friend treats her cold?

I have gone with a dozen guys, and two out of three of them used to be like her boyfriend. I said used to be because I changed them.

If a boy and I were walking down the street and I liked him, I'd put my hand in his, or put my arm through his arm, or hold him, or stop him and kiss him. At first he would be surprised, but after a while he got used to it, and held my hand or kissed me of his own accord. It was good clean fun, but boy what fun.

My mom told me how to go about it. She was smart, and so was I for taking her advice. — 17 in Pennsylvania

(A.) Your mother gave you good advice. Thank you for passing it along.

MAKEUP: (Q.) Do you think 14 is too young to use makeup? Everytime I ask my mother to let me she says "you are too young." Girls younger than I use it. They ask me, "How come you don't use a makeup? You'd look good in it." — Not Yet in Massachusetts.

(A.) Lot of girls of 14 wear makeup. My daughter does. Tell your mother about her.

If a girl can put it on with a light touch it can add much to her appearance.

Careful Play Brings in 6

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South didn't know just how to bid his hand. The one thing he was sure of was that there was no reason to use Blackwood. He didn't really care whether or not his partner held the ace of clubs.

Six was a good contract, but careful play was necessary and South gave the hand the correct careful play.

He ruffed the club lead and drew two rounds of trumps while leaving the jack of trumps in dummy.

Then he went after the diamonds by cashing his ace of diamonds and leading towards dummy's king.

This play left West right between a rock and a hard place. If he ruffed, South would play low from dummy and be able to ruff a losing diamond in dummy later on.

West saw this danger and discarded, but his didn't faze South. He went up with dummy's king and led back the suit. East was in but could not lead a trump so South got to ruff one diamond which was all he needed.

Heated Debate Over Israel

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — The Organization of African Unity today rejected Arab resolutions calling for Israel's ouster from the United Nations and adopted a watered-down measure against the Jewish state.

The all-night debate on the Middle East produced the most heated exchange of the OAS summit conference, with Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy cursing Egypt over the issue.

The 46-nation organization turned down a Libyan resolution calling for Israel's expulsion from the world organization and an Egyptian demand for Israel's suspension.

The delegates then approved a weak resolution urging all nations to "reinforce pressure exerted on Israel at the U.N. and specialized agencies including the possibility of eventually depriving it of its membership in these institutions."

Some moderate delegates attending the conference criticized even the watered-down version. Zaire rejected the measure while Ghana, Sierra Leone, Senegal and Liberia expressed reservations.

The resolution also expressed "solidarity" with the Palestinian cause, urged a trade boycott against Israel and encouraged the Palestine Liberation Organization to establish offices in member states.

In an effort to speed up a decision on the Middle East, the OAU organized a top-level meeting restricted to the heads of delegations.

Col. Khadafy postponed his trip home to argue for the expulsion of Israel. He was backed by Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Egypt submitted a proposal calling for the suspension of Israel and insisted on unanimous approval "to reflect a united African stand against imperialism and Zionism."

At the height of the heated talks, Khadafy asked the Egyptian delegation if it supported expulsion. He cursed the Egyptians when the answer was no.

The Middle East conflict was the last major issue to come before the conference. Ugandan President Idi Amin, the OAU chairman, closes the talks Saturday.

The conference adopted a resolution Thursday night calling for an immediate cease-fire in Angola. It urged Portugal, the colony's ruler, to "stop the wanton killing" between rival guerrilla groups.

The OAU also voted to explore the possibility of sending a peacekeeping force to put an end to months of bitter, post-independence fighting between Angola's black nationalist groups.

Raid Against Lebanon Village

By UPI

Israeli troops raided a frontier village in southern Lebanon today in a strike against suspected Palestinian guerrilla hideouts along the border.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the Israeli force took over the village of Tawza this morning and blew up a house suspected of being a guerrilla hideout.

A command spokesman said the raid against Tawza, three Campaigns Underway In N.H.

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Early differences in campaign styles are showing in New Hampshire's new election for the U.S. Senate.

The campaigns started Thursday, a day after the U.S. Senate decided on a rerun of last year's disputed race — the closest Senate race in history.

Democrat John Durkin scheduled 11 interviews with state media in a nine-hour period, skipping into the state's three largest cities where many of New Hampshire's 116,000 registered Democrats reside.

The campaign of Republican Louis Wyman, 58, started more slowly for the Sept. 16 election. His chief aide said public appearances for the former five-term congressman would not begin until a county fair during the weekend.

Durkin and Wyman ran so close in November that both sides claimed victory and the Senate was unable to resolve the issues. Finally, Durkin joined Wyman in requesting the new election.

Durkin, a 39-year-old former state insurance commissioner who calls himself a consumer advocate, planned brief interviews in the Massachusetts border community of Nashua, the Merrimack River city of Manchester and the state capital at Concord.

miles north of the Israeli settlement of Shtula, began before midnight Thursday but lasted until early this morning.

The spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties during the raid. He declined to say whether any guerrillas were killed or taken captive.

There was no immediate comment from the Lebanese military command in Beirut.

In Beirut, Palestinian guerrillas reported bombing Jerusalem's central bus station Thursday and killing or wounding several Israelis. Police in Jerusalem said a time bomb damaged a bench in the bus station but caused no casualties.

The Israeli military command said gunners in Lebanon fired on Israeli troops patrolling the northern frontier but did not cause any casualties.

The Israeli raid, the latest in a series of cross-the-border strikes into southern Lebanon, came at a time of increasing diplomatic activity.

In Alexandria, Egypt, U.S. Ambassador Hermann Eilts relayed Israel's latest peace proposals Thursday to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Cairo.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo reported Egypt and Israel in basic agreement on a new troop separation agreement but still divided on details of the pact.

"The basic elements of an agreement do exist," one diplomat said. "But a great deal depends on details which will be the determining factor. The picture is not clear yet."

Wealthy Rajmata Arrested

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The Indian government has announced the arrest of the controversially wealthy and popular Rajmata (queen mother) of Jaipur on charges of violating the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Act.

The 54-year-old opposition parliament member was arrested late Wednesday afternoon, and is now being held in Delhi's Tihar Jail, according to a statement made in parliament.

The Rajmata, named in the late 30s as one of the nine most beautiful women in the world, hit international headlines last year when an expensive necklace was snatched from her neck outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City.

A subsequent Indian government investigation into the family fortunes early this year turned up some $5 million worth of gold and other assets, according to government statements at the time.

The Rajmata and her family are extremely popular in Jaipur, a constituency she has represented for eight years.

India's Rajas (princes) lost their political power with independence and were stripped of their extraordinary privileges, including state pensions in 1972.

The Rajmata is the second arrested since the proclamation of a state of emergency June 26. The first was the Rajmata Gwalior, a member of the rightist Hindu Jana Sangh.

Rajmata Jaipur was a member of the defunct Swatantra Party and is currently a member of the opposition coalition bloc.

Ford to Veto Congress' Extension Of Domestic Price Controls

HELSINKI (UPI) — President Ford will veto Congress' six-month extension of domestic oil price controls, White House press secretary Ron Nessen said today.

The House Thursday approved a bill already cleared by the Senate which would extend current price controls on most types of domestic oil for six months beyond the Aug. 31 expiration date.

Nessen confirmed that, as expected, Ford will veto any such proposals for six-month extension without complementary agreements on gradual phasing out of the price controls. If prices of gasoline rise as expected when the controls expire, Nessen said, Congress will be to blame.

"Congress is blocking an orderly solution" to the energy problem, Nessen said.

He said the administration was preparing "some steps to mitigate" expected gasoline price increases and to bring about an orderly transition in the phasing out of controls.

In response to a question, Nessen said Congress "will clearly suffer" from the political fallout because "the President compromised twice" on the proposed legislation.

Ford proposed two plans for gradually decontrolling oil prices as an alternative to letting the controls expire suddenly at the end of August, but Congress killed both his proposals.

"I think Americans are now aware of the energy problem," he said. "The President is trying to solve it. Congress is trying to block it."

The President had proposed gradually relaxing the controls over 39 months, but Congress refused to accept his plan.

Oil that is under a price umbrella sells for $5.25 a barrel. Uncontrolled domestic oil is selling for $11 to $12 and the foreign oil the United States imports is coming in largely around $13.

The end of controls would let that $5.25 oil more than double. It makes up 60 percent of domestic oil, so its increase would raise roughly by 50 percent the "mix" of prices.

If companies take advantage fully of the increase, it conceivably could mean gasoline or heating oil or diesel fuel could go up 20 or 30 cents a gallon.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, estimates it would be more like 6 or 7 cents within a month or two and possibly 10 to 15 cents within several months.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., estimates more in the 30-cent range, which would make gasoline 90 cents or so a gallon by fall.

Other variables have to do with whether foreign nations raise their prices, whether gasoline supplies increase enough to force prices down competitively in this country, and whether new controls replace the old ones before the effects of the disappearance of controls show.

Also, there is a possibility the administration will cancel some of the extra fees it has placed on imports. A lowering of the fees would lower prices.
